Self-Inquiry as the Path to Realization

One of the most emphasized teachings of Sri Ramana Maharshi is the practice of self-inquiry, primarily asking oneself, "Who am I?" This method directs attention inward, away from external objects and thoughts, toward the source of consciousness itself.

Highlights of self-inquiry include:

- Recognizing the transient nature of thoughts and sensations.
- Tracing all experiences back to the sense of "I" or "I-am-ness."

Maharshi often explained that this process is simple yet profound: by relentlessly questioning the ego's source, the seeker dissolves the false identification with the body and mind, ultimately realizing their true nature as pure consciousness.

The Nature of the Self

In many dialogues, Maharshi clarified that the Self is not an object to be acquired but the subject itself—ever-present, unchanging, and divine. He often stated, "The Self is always there; it is we who are unaware of it."

Key points about the Self include:

- It is beyond birth and death.
- It is not affected by external circumstances.
- It is the silent witness behind all experiences.

Maharshi's teachings encourage seekers to turn inward and realize that their true nature is already present, waiting to be uncovered through self-awareness.

Detachment and Renunciation

Another common theme in Maharshi's talks involves detachment from worldly attachments and desires. While he did not advocate renunciation for its own sake, he emphasized the importance of inner renunciation—letting go of egoic desires and identification with the body-mind complex.

Aspects of this teaching include:

- Awareness of the 'I' is foundational to understanding the mind.
