The Philosophy Behind the Ratings

Roger Ebert's ratings system was straightforward yet nuanced. While he used a five-star scale, the four-star rating represented a film of high quality—one that he believed was outstanding and deserving of special recognition. Unlike a five-star masterpiece, four stars indicated a film that was exemplary but perhaps not perfect. Ebert's ratings were not merely about entertainment; they encapsulated his critical judgment, aesthetic appreciation, and cultural insight.

He often emphasized that his ratings were subjective but rooted in a consistent methodology: considering storytelling, acting, direction, originality, and emotional resonance. A four-star review was, therefore, a testament to a film's enduring artistic or emotional impact.
